.....PAYABLE IN ADVANCE.....Tariff and High Prices.

The whole tariff issue, as far as the great majority of the people are concerned, is the question of prices. All the carling of politicians and the quibbling of those protected by the tariff cannot disguise the fact that under Republican tariff laws the cost of living has vastly increased, and many people have not received an advance in incomes or wages to meet the average enhanced price of all they buy. Nor can it be denied that under these Republican tariff laws there has been formed trusts and combinations which we have advanced the average price of commodities over 60 per cent during the past fourteen years. The protection theory that competition between manufacturers for the home markets keeps the price they charge for their products here within a reasonable scope even if they sell cheaper abroad has entirely broken down in consequence of combinations which have advanced prices beyond all that was thought possible. The high tariff rates on most articles prevent competition from abroad and the combining of manufacturers has very greatly eliminated competition at home, so that if the present tariff is continued there is no relief in sight.

There are two remedies that will reduce these high prices; namely, to curb the trusts and combines so that home competition would in a measure prevail and to reduce the tariff that competition from abroad will compel reasonable prices here.

The tariff is not responsible for all the vast increase in prices, neither are the trusts and combines; but these causes can be safe charged with more than half of the increase. Under a tariff for revenue only, prices have advanced in England about 25 per cent, and the causes for such increased are world wide. In protected Germany and France prices have increased as much as here and combinations in restraint of trade similar to our trusts are prevalent.

The republican politicians and stump speakers will, of course, try to before the tariff issue with a great mass of details and figures which but few can understand to tell the plain fact would give away the while protection theory, which is already breaking down of its own weight and the practical injustice of taxing all the people for the benefit of a few who are protected.

A Good many standpat congressmen are dropping out of the fight for a renomination, which shows that the trend is strongly towards Democracy.

Senator Smoot at the meeting of governors at Salt Lake said "he did not believe that Eastern interests were trying to control the West." Then why does Senator Smoot always vote for Senator Aldrich?

"Sonny Jim" Sherman and the President scored first blood in their fight with the Colonel, which shows that the administration is hanging together. The Colonel will have to take his innings later—perhaps.

Can the Republicans afford not to renominate President Taft? To do otherwise would acknowledge that his administration and policies have been a failure. That would be equal to defeat in advance, even with the Colonel as the candidate.

When it comes to the control of committees the "Old Guard" is on to the game but how does it fare at the election? Does any one believe that Jim Sherman, although he is Vice president, could beat Roosevelt for any position in republican ranks in New York or elsewhere?

Nick Longworth is backing up father-in-law as well as he can by going back on Uncle Joe, but the Colonel should see that Nick renounces Cannonism. Uncle Joe may soon enter the Astral plane, but all the awfulisms which he stands for must be discarded if the people are to gain.

National Forests as National Playgrounds.

Washington, D. C., August 27.—Before the years' outing season is over nearly half a million persons will have sought recreation and health in the National Forests of the United States. According to the record of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the total last year was, in close figures, 406,775. With the finest mountain scenery and much of the best fishing and big game hunting in the United States, the National Forests, made more and more accessible each year through protection and development by the Government, are fast becoming great national playgrounds for the people.

The use of the forests for recreation is as yet in its beginning, but is growing steadily and rapidly in some of the forests at the rate of a hundred per cent per annum. The day seems not far distant when a million persons will annually visit them.

The records show that the seasonal use of the forests runs from two months in a Colorado forest, such as the Routt, to twelve months in an Alaskan, such as the Tongass. But the uses differ. In Colorado the 2,000 visitors entered the forest to fish, to camp, to climb, and to drink the medicinal waters; in Alaska the 1,000 at most solely to hunt and fish. The 21,000 persons who went into the Cienega forest, Arizona, during nine months went to camp or to enjoy the scenery.

During four months 50,000 persons visited the Angeles, California. The most popular of the forests is the Pike, containing the famous peak of that name. The various attractions within its limits, including the scenic railway, drew 100,000 tourists and others. By principal States the National Forest visitors numbered 23,000 in Arizona, 103,000 in California, 140,000 in Colorado, 19,000 in Montana, 10,000 in New Mexico, 33,000 in Oregon, 22,000 in Idaho, 16,000 in Utah, and 12,000 in Washington.

Of the natural wonders and landmarks of interest in the National Forests several have been set apart as National Monuments among them Cinder Cone, a great lava basin in California; the Gila Cliff Dwellings, a prehistoric ruin in New Mexico; the unsurpassed Grand Canyon of the Colorado, in Arizona; Jewel Cave, South Dakota; Lassen Peak, the terminus of a long line of extinct volcanoes in the Cascades; the Pinnacles, a collection of remarkable jagged peaks in California; and the Tonto, a group of prehistoric ruins in the Tonto Forest in Arizona. The Big Trees, Glacier Park the Petrified Forest, the Oregon Caves and numerous other phenomena serve to attract other hosts of visitors.

The sportsman finds his paradise in the National Forests. In many of them big game abounds. The rangers and the guards; besides the service they perform against the spread of fire often point out the best site for the camper and the easiest route. A record of 9,218 miles of trail cut, 1,236 miles of road laid out, and 4,851 miles of telephone line strung tells what the Government has done in the way of pushing conveniences of civilization into the primeval forest. The day of wilderness of the savage and the pioneer is swiftly passing; the day of National Forests as productive resources and as National parks approaches. The report of last year's administration by the U. S. Department of agriculture evidences the rapidity of the transformation.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as with-out fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.
